The Safest Investments

Are those that do not fluctuate during dis-turbed conditions of the money or stock mark-kets. First deed of trust notes (first more sages), well secured on real estate in the District of Columbia, constitute "giltedge" investments. They do not depend upon the financial responsibility of individuals or to-porations for their stability, and are exemp-from taxation as personal property. FOR ITS HEARINGS

Campagin Fund Probers Take Recess Until Tomorrow Morning.

The Senate committee on Campaign Contributions, which announced last night that hearings would be resumed this morning, failed to examine any witnesses. Senator Ciapp announced a recess until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Too of three Indiana witnesses are expected to appear at that time and give further testimony with reference to Senator Beveridge's campaign for the Senatorship in 1904. It was hoped that some of these witnesses would be present today, but they failed to appear.

While the committee has not yet announced any definite plans for taking a recess until after election, it was the general feeling about the Capitol today, that in view of the way the hearings are lagging and the difficulty of getting witnesses, the investigation would soon be deferred until after the election.

H. C. Pettit, former speaker of the Indiana house of representatives, will be the witness before the Ciapp committee tomorrow morning.

Beveridge Foes Disappointed.

Beveridge Foes Disappointed.

The enemies of former Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana were disappointed at the evidence which was brought out yesterday afternoon before the Senate committee on campaign contributions. An attack on Beveridge, formented apparently by standpatters anxious to discredit the former Senator and the Buil Moose movement in Indiana, succeeded in showing that Beveridge had done a highly creditable thing in the campaign of 1994, when he was in a fight for the Senate. He worke the political record by receiving $57,500 in contributions and returning the whole sum unused to the men who sent it.

He returned the fnds, moreover, on the high ground that he ought not receive the contributions, despite the fact they were given without imposing the slightest obligation, and because he took the view that he had always got along without such money and could do so again.

The money was sent, according to the testimony yesterday, by George W. Perkins, who contributed $40,000; by Edward McLean, of Ohlo, a cousin of former Senator Beveridge, who gave $25,000, and by Gifford Pinchot, who gave $42,500.
